The Department of Energy's Office of Science has honored five Berkeley Lab researchers — Manfred Auer and Danielle Jorgens, (Life Sciences), Michael Martin
(ALS),
Howard Matis
(Nuclear Science) and
Margaret Torn
(Earth Sciences) — as Outstanding Mentors for their work with students, coordinated through the Lab's Center for Science and Engineering Education (CSEE) last summer. "The role of mentors is absolutely essential in preparing the next generation of scientists and engineers," says
Susan Brady
, head of CSEE. "We hope more Lab scientists will consider serving as mentors this summer."

Today at LBNL, Mar 11, 2008.